MUSSEL ROCK DUMP

This is the stretch of Mussel Rock Dump in Daly City that might slip into the sea during an earthquake, triggering a major pollution problem, experts say.

DC Trying to Prevent Slide

By FRANK LaPIERRE

One of the first questions Bill Chapman asked when he took over as city engineer for the City of Daly City in 1960 was why did the city have an ocean front dump at Mussel Rock.

Chapman, in an interview this week, said he was "slightly apprehensive" about the dump location even then.

But studies conducted by an assortment of engineers over the years, including his predecessors, city manager Howard Stikes and city engineer Otis Calhoun, allayed these fears, Chapman said.

It was Chapman who two weeks ago dropped a bomb in the laps of the City Council when he told them the San Andreas Fault was squeezing water to the surface under the dump and the whole mess — perhaps seven million tons of garbage — might slide into the Pacific Ocean any day.

A slight temblor could trigger the gigantic slide, creating one of the biggest pollution problems ever witnessed in the area, Chapman and geologist John Lowney told the council.

Chapman became suspicious of the possibility of a slide during a study started about two years ago. He called in Lowney.

Borings of the subsoil were taken down to a depth of some 300 feet. It was there, far beneath the surface of the fill-and-cover dump operation, that the cause of the slippage was discovered.

Water seepage, thought to be from fresh water springs, is acting as a lubricant, causing an area stretching about 1,000 feet along the ocean front to slide.

It was estimated in the studies that the dump and a riprap seawall of huge boulders built to protect the face of the dump had slipped some four inches in 1975.

People began asking why the dump was opened in the area, inasmuch as the roadway (Old Highway One) had caved in years ago.

The fact is, the dump at Mussel Rock had begun disposing of the city's garbate, using the accepted fill-and-cover method, long before the road was closed to traffic between Pacifica and points north.

In 1960, some three years after dumping had been underway at Mussel Rock, the state Highway Department closed the road, routing traffic along the newer four lane north-south highway.

This three mile stretch of ocean front highway, between Thornton Beach and Mussel Rock, had always been a headache to highway maintenance crews, as is the treacherous Devil's Slide area to these same crews today.

Daly City Scavenger Co. president Al Sereni recalls the company bought 87 acres of the dumpsite property from a Col. McGready through the late realtor Bill Lagomarsino. Another 100 acres west of Highway One was purchased from builder Henry Doelger.

"I remember Stikes looked over the area and told us to go ahead and start dumping there. He (Stikes) said, it was alright," Sereni said.

Until the Mussel Rock site opened, the scavengers ran a loosely-knit organization and maintained a "dump and burn" operation in a canyon where the St. Francis Heights housing tract is today.

When anti-pollution measures forced closing of that dump, the scavengers moved to Mussel Rock.

Cursory studies of that period in 1957, coupled with less stringent pollution laws, failed to point out any possible slide danger — even though the dump was located on a notorious earthquake fault.

Scavenger company officers John Eberle and Sereni agreed on Aug. 23, 1954, to collect garbage in Daly City under the protective umbrella of an exclusive franchise with the city.

This agreement was carried over, with some modifications, when the scavengers began using the Mussel Rock dump in October 1957.

Two years later, 57 acres of the site was deeded to the city. Another 125 acres

'Yes' for Broadmoor Police District

At the Nov. 2 election, four neighborhoods in the Broadmoor Police Protection District — Broadmoor Village, Sterling Park, Garden Village and unincorporated Colma — will vote on Proposition U which is likely to determine whether this police district continues to do its job or just plain "goes broke." We think a favorable vote is warranted to keep the district in business.

Approval of this ballot measure would double the taxing limit of the residents in this area, which now reportedly averages about $40 a year. This seems, under the circumstances, a reasonable move to continue the police district in operation. It will also appeal to those who would like to arrest the drift toward annexation of this community by Daly City.

Certainly the 7,000 residents of the area concerned deserve and must have adequate police services. After considering possible options, including the suggestion of contracting for services with the Brisbane or Colma police departments, Proposition U seems to us to represent the most practical and least expensive alternative for Broadmoor. The Times recommends a "Yes" vote on Proposition U at the Nov. 2 election.

Nurse's Killer Is Convicted

A Mendocino County jury of eight women and four men found Mark Ray, 19 guilty of murder in the gun slaying of South San Francisco widow Mildred Koetz after deliberating 12 hours Friday.

Superior Court Judge Arthur B. Broadduf was to conduct a special circumstance hearing on the case Monday.

District Atty. James M. Duncan presented his case against the accused slayer in only one day. The case went to the jury at 4:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Ray, a transient, was found guilty on all counts against him: murder, conspiracy to commit murder, robbery, kidnaping and auto theft.

Accompanied by Sharon Nicolin, 13, of Pacifica, Ray waited outside the Winston Manor Shopping Center one day last February until Mrs. Koetz, the mother of two, returned to her car.

Mrs. Koetz, as was her custom, had visited a beauty salon at the center that day.

Ray and the teenaged Miss Nicolini, now serving an indefinite term at the California Youth Facility, forced Mrs. Koetz into the trunk of her car at gunpoint.

They then drove to a lonely stretch of road in Mendocino County where they forced their victim to walk down a path.

At the end of the path they shot her to death, prosecutor Duncan told the jury.

The pair was arrested after their car went out of control and hit a tree during a high speed chase by a Mendocino County sheriff.

A faulty tailight on Mrs. Koetz' car, being driven by Ray, attracted the attention of the officer, it was reported.

During questioning by police, Ray told of where they could find the body of Mrs. Koetz.

Earlier, Miss Nicolini had been found guilty of complicity in the slaying. It was recommended that she be assigned to a foster home.

But public outcry demanded the girl be sent to prison instead and the recommendation of leniency was not followed.

DOWNRIGHT DOGGEDLY

When a dog wants out of the yard, he has to try, sometimes downright doggedly. Photographer John Storey snapped this one at his home on Westline Drive in Daly City, scrambling up the fence, losing his foothold and then falling down again. But he made it.

Nineteenth Assembly District Race

Campaign Listlessly Closes

By RICK SULLIVAN

Low key, lackluster, perhaps even apathetic, can best describe the campaign thus far for the 19th District State Assembly seat, representing North San Mateo County.

Two-term veteran Louis Papan of Millbrae, is "standing on his record" while his challenger, Republican Dorothy Adams, a Daly City elementary school district trustee, is waging a less than agressive battle to unseat the incumbent.

Neither candidate was challenged during the June primary election campaign, resulting in only slightly noticeable debate. That indifference has extended into the November presidential election campaign.

DOROTHY ADAMS

LOUIS PAPAN

The 50-year-old Mrs. Adams and the 48-year-old Papan disagree on the approach to problem solving in many areas, but they do agree on remedies the legislature should take to correct what they believe to be the No. 1 concern of their constituents — property tax reform. Both advocate what is commonly referred to as a "split tax roll," a lower tax rate on owner-occupied property than on all other property.

Papan says he believes split tax roll legislation, although defeated in the last session of the legislature, will be approved next year.

Such legislation would offer some relief to the homeowner, but also would result in a loss of tax money to local agencies.

The state would have to come up with other sources of revenue for the cities, and it is in this area that Papan and Mrs. Adams are unaligned.

Papan is reluctant to pinpoint a single area for a tax shift, commenting, "This is a very complex area that needs to be studied very carefully."

He recognizes that the legistlaure has got to address the problem "one way or the other," but he warns that "property tax relief cannot be realized by transferring the tax burden to the same people in yet another way."

Mrs. Adams is more specific. She recognizes that property tax reform is indeed complex, but she believes the legislature could exploit two existing revenue sources "to bring real tax relief."

"I would advocate a tax shift to personal income tax and corporate taxes," said Mrs. Adams. "This is at least a start in a gradual process of real relief. If you don't get started, you never get finished."

The two candidates also share the notion that property taxes contribute too much to education and that something should be done about it.

Again, Papan is reluctant to suggest any specific alternate source of revenue for education, saying only that "the possibility of a statewide property tax could be discussed."

Mrs. Adams believes state businesses should be tapped to pay for at least a portion of the education coasts, "since businesses have a stake in the education of children."

Papan notes that he introduced legislation which requires all assessors in the state to develop a five-year assessment practices plan and to file that plan with the state Franchise Tax Board.

The legislation, he believes, will clear up much of the mystery of how and how often, assessors appraise property.

As a representative of Active Women Advancing Responsible Environment (AWARE), Mrs. Adams is upset that the legislature has shown little concern for young families she says are finding it increasingly difficult to buy their first home.

"Young people are becoming extremely frustrated that inflation and taxes are keeping their first home just out of their reach," Mrs. Adams says.

"I think there is a general feeling among these young people that the legislature doesn't care and I think this has caused a mistrust of government, a lack of confidence in the structure," she adds.

Mrs. Adams complains that the recently enacted coastal legislation makes it more difficult for young families to buy homes because it placed strict controls on development along the coast.

She also charges that Papan is "very weak" in protecting the rights of property owners, citing his endorsement of the coastal bill.

"The effect of that bill will not only make homes more scarce and therefore more expensive, but will give only minimal protections to those who own property in the coastal protection zone," she says.

Papan is proud of his vote on the legislation because, he says, it brings sensible controls over shoreline property and is a "workable plan."

He also cites his introduction of legislation to provide state funds to puchase beach property in Pacifica.

On a related matter, the assemblyman notes that he

Fire Rocks SSF Chemicals Plant

Explosions and fire ripped through a South San Francisco chemical plant Monday, sending flames and smoke into the night sky.

No one was injured in the 10:30 p.m. blaze, which heavily damaged the Reichold Chemical plant at 120 S. Linden Ave.

Several employes of the company managed to flee the chemical plant building as flames shot from windows and series of explosions rocked the 35-foot-high structure.

No one was injured in the fire, Battalion Chief Jack Drago said.

Although the flames were knocked down quickly by a combined force of firefighters from South San Francisco, San Bruno and Brisbane it took more than three hours to mop up, Drago said.

Drago said a chemical processing tank inside the building foamed over and the contents were apparently ignited by a pilot light.

Fed by paints, varnish and other flammables, the fire flashed through the plant, Drago said.

"When we got there, flames were coming out of every window," Drago said. "There was a lot of smoke and a lot of flames."

Lyon Outspends McRobert Stewart

El Granada attorney Fred Lyon is outspending Daly City Councilman McRobert Stewart in the campaign for election to the Fifth District seat on the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors in the Nov. 2 general election.

In campaign financial statements just filed with the office of County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church, Lyon's campaign committee reported a total of $23,599 in contributions, while spending $23,210.

Stewart's committee reported $20,804 in contributions with expenditures totaling $16,592.

Attorney Robert Bishop of Woodside is spending almost as much in his effort to get elected to the Southern District Municipal Court bench.

In his statement, Bishop reported income of $22,590, more than $18,000 of that amount his own money, while spending $21,412.

His opponent for the judicial position, V. Gene McDonald of Foster City, reported income of $9,602, with expenditures of $4,163.

In the 19th and 20th district State Assembly races, both incumbents are far outspending their opponents in bids for re-election.

Democratic 19th District Assemblyman Louis L. Papan reported income of $9,584, while spending $4,691. One opponent, Republican Dorothy Adams, reported contributions of $510, with expenditures of $439, while American Independent Joseph W. Kersha reported income of $399, while spending $89.

Republican 20th District Assemblyman Dixon Arnett has reported contributions totaling $8,637, and expenditures of only $1,594. His Democratic opponent, Byron Skinner, reported $1,487 in contributions, while spending $764.

The Citizens for Harbor District Tax Reform, which is supporting a slate of three candidates opposing three incumbents for the San Mateo County Harbor District Board of Commissioners, reported contributions of $1,612, with expenditures of $903.

The organization is supporting Jean J. Flocks, Raymond F. Rivas and Frank J. Prendergast against incumbents Jack C. Bishop, J. Charles Schultheis and Frank Lee Jr.

$11 Million Teachers' Pact Estimate

By JANET PARKER

The total cost of a contract proposal by the South San Francisco Classroom Teachers Association for 1976-77 has been estimated at more than $11 million by district officials.

The total budget of the South San Francisco Unified School District including salaries and fringe benefits is $20.9 million this year.

District controller Paul Zink said his $11,451,800 cost analysis is for all the new fringe benefits, programs and services, as well as for the salary increase requested by the teachers in a package presented on Oct. 6.

"There's nothing in there that is already in the budget," Zink said. He added that his cost analysis was "concervative."

The district, as are all other public school districts throughout the state, is dealing with collective bargaining provisions for the first time.

The SSFCTA has been designated the official bargaining unit for the district's 589 teachers.

The public's opportunity to respond to the CTA proposal will occur Wednesday evening.

The board will present its counter-proposal on Nov. 10 and public comment again will be accepted on Nov. 24.

District Supt. Tom Caffney said negotiations will begin as soon after as possible.

The teachers' 143-page proposal includes paid vacations, an improved life insurance policy and a 5 per cent salary increase on top of a cost-of-living increase.

Zink estimates the most costly item to be paid vacations, totalling at least $1,667,181.

The teachers' apparently unique proposal is for two paid weeks at the end of the first year of service, three weeks after the second and third years, four weeks after the fourth year and five weeks after the sixth working year.

Zink said that figure is conservative because it does not include paid vacations for the additional teachers requested elsewhere in the proposal.

The second greatest cost, according to Zink, is a proposal to establish new maximum class sizes. It would reauire, if adopted in full, at least $1.3 million for new teachers, Zink estimates.

The district presently determines class size by a districtwide formula.

The average class size is 30 for kindergartens, 36.7 for first through sixth grades, 26 for seventh through eighth grades and 24 for ninth through 12th grades.

The SSFCTA is asking that class size instead be determined by a maximum standard of 22 for individual classrooms in the elementary and junior and senior high classrooms except for certain special classes such as the children's center and remedial reading

A request by the SSFCTA that teachers be paid for all nonteaching and extracurricular duties is estimated to cost $818,916.

The union is asking that teachers be paid not only for coaching but also for such duties as club sponsorship, dance supervision, athletic game supervision, bus duty, mandated attendance at PTA meetings and meetings with parents other than regular parent conferences.

The Bay Area cost-of-living index increased from March 1975 to March 1976 has been estimated at 6.1 per cent. Zink said the total cost for SSFUSO teachers would be $685,000.

The additional 5 per cent being requested as compensation for the difference between what teachers requested and what they got last year is $535,000.

SSFCTA President John Heron said Friday he hadn't had a chance to evaluate the cost analysis but he thought the figures "could be a little high."

Heron said the SSFCTA takes the entire package seriously although, "There are things in here we are certain will not be accepted."

The CTA, he said, accepted the proposals of all factions of its membership and compiled them into the final proposal after consultation with CTA negotiation specialists.

"The package itself is the proposal of all the different elements and compenents of the district," Heron said.

"We're now going to take it a section at a time and talk about it internally." SSFCTA members will be surveyed and priority items for negotiations will be established.

"We will attempt to negotiate every item. How important each one is will be another matter," he said.

Supt. Gaffney said he assumes that "all these are negotiable proposals that are meant to be taken quite seriously."

Copies of the proposal are available for public inspection at both city libraries and at the offices of the district's 21 schools.

was turned over to the city in 1972.

All the area, it was hoped, would someday be transformed from a dump into a park for the people, city officials explained.

To date, part of the dump that fronts the ocean already is a park frequented by surf fishermen.

During the past 18 years, the scavenger company has paid out between $60,000 and $75,000 for studies of the dump, plus an estimated $50,000 in maintenance, it was learned.

A study of the dump was conducted by Wilsey & Ham Engineers in 1964, and paid for by San Mateo County. It included all dump sites in the county.

That study also failed to disclose any slippage.

In 1965, there was a "slip out" of garbage in the "front" of the dump, and another study was conducted by Wilsey & Ham — this time on the construction of a seawall.

At the insistence of the state Water Quality Control Board, the seawall was built using huge boulders from a Pacifica rock quarry.

Meanwhile, tons of garbage was moved away from the ocean front to the "back" of the dump and reburied. The garbage deposited in the dump is above sea level and earth had to be used to refill the excavation made by removing the refuse, Sereni said.

These earlier slides were thought to have been triggered by ocean action undermining the front of the dump.

Later tests proved this theory to be wrong.

Now, engineers must again study the dump in a last-ditch effort to figure out how to stop the slippage and prevent the slide.

Asked if homes in the cliffs high above the dump are in danger of sliding, Chapman said, "No."

Some homes along the cliffs have, over the years, slipped and cracked and had to be removed, specifically on Westline Drive, records indicate.

But the present slide does not affect any homes, engineers venture.

Bruno Petition Drive Starts

A group of San Bruno citizens opposed to development of more apartments in the city began circulating a petition Tuesday to gather enough signatures to place a referendum measure on the ballot.

Following a City Council vote Monday night rezoning a six-acre parcel to allow expansion of The Place apartment complex, Douglas Dawkins announced that the door-to-door petition drive would begin.

The signatures of 10 per cent of the registered voters or about 1,500, must be gathered for the referendum on the rezoning matter to qualify for the ballot.

Dawkins, who heads the petition movement, warned the council several months ago that he would push for referendum if the council approved the expansion.

Last month, the council by a 3-2 vote, Councilmen Richard Griffith and Gary Mondfrans dissenting, approved the first reading of the zone change from administrative research to multi-family residential.

Two weeks ago, the council was scheduled to approve the second and final reading, but The Place developer, Lincoln Property Co., requested that the reading be postponed.

Denny McLarry, a partner in the development company, told the council he wanted to meet with those opposed to the expansion plan. He said he wanted to lead opponents on a tour of The Place complex and to explain in detail his company's plans for construction of 176 new apartments units at the corner of Sneath Lane and Cherry Avenue.

Dawkins said Monday night that he was impressed by McLarry's presentation, but he said it did not alter his view that "San Bruno does not need any more apartments."

"One more apartment building, no matter where it is," Dawkins said, "is too much. We just don't need any more.

"People say there is a need for housing but I don't see why San Bruno has always got to supply it," he added. "We have Shelter Creek (apartments) Crystal Springs Terrace and The Place. That's enough."

According to City Clerk Terri Rasmmussen, all petitions must be delivered to City Hall in 30 days. She said she and her assistants will count the signatures and verify if all are registered voters.

If signatures of 10 per cent of the voters are indeed gathered, the petition will be presented to the City Council. The council must then either rescind its vote on the rezoning matter or place the issue on the ballot.

co-authored legislation which authorized that $3 million to $4 million be appropriated to help San Mateo County purchase a section of San Bruno Mountain, "should the opportunity arise."

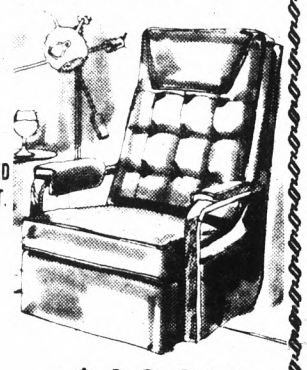

Papan points out other accomplishments during his last term, including delaying action on a request for a 111 per cent fare increase in commute fares by Southern Pacific, and introducing legislation to allow transit districts in San Mateo and Santa Clara counties to subsidize SP service if it is so desired.

The incumbent, a former FBI agent and a vice mayor of Daly City, is serving on various Assembly committees and is a member of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Mrs. Adams has been a Jefferson Elementary School District trustee for the past eight years. She has resided in Daly City for 18 years.

Chavez Draws Big Crowd

By DUANE SANDUL

Who says political apathy reigns in San Mateo County?

An enthusiastic, standing-room only crowd estimated between 350 to 500 jammed a Menlo Park church hall Thursday night to hear United Farm Workers President Cesar Chavez promote Prop. 14, the agricultural labor relations initiative.

While congressional, state assembly and local office seekers have struggled for audiences this election year, bringing cries of public apathy, the hall at St. Anthony's church was packed.

It was as if the throng of people had come as much to see Cesar Chavez as to hear him. It was his first political appearance in San Mateo County.

Even those fortunate enough to occupy the 150 chairs climbed to their feet in applauding Chavez as he entered the hall. The mood spontaneously developed into a rally-type of hand-clapping.

Later, even Chavez admitted that he was impressed.

Noting how he has compaigned throughout California during the past two months for Prop. 14, Chavez said, "There's more spirit here tonight then I've seen in a long time."

Among the key provisions of Prop. 14, according to its official description in the California voters pamphlet, is one stating that the legislature is to provide funding necessary to carry out the act.

The act seeks to reestablish the Agricultural Labor Relations Board and establish rules governing labor organizers and growers.

Preceding Chavez' bilingual presentation, Father Eugene Boyle of Stanford, a long-time supporter of farm worker causes, asserted, "We are up against one of the shoddiest campaigns in Cailifornia history."

He called the opposition advertisements depicting passage of Prop. 14 as a loss of property rights "lies and decption."

Father Boyle said that the U.S. Supreme Court has let stand a California Supreme Court decision declaring that the "access rule" similar to the one proposed in the initiative did not violate property rights.

Father Boyle introduced Chavez as the man "fighting the longest and hardest for equality, not only for farmworkers, but for oppressed people in the country and world."

Chavez, wearing brown slacks and a blue plaid shirt, spoke in both English and Spanish. His style was low-key, his poise indicative of one who has appeared in the public light for as long as he. He needed no notes, as he methodically but passionately presented his views.

"The only issue on Prop. 14," said he, "is that it will guarantee farmworkers the opportunity to vote in secret elections whether or not they want a union."

He said the Prop. 14 is on the ballot because of the failure of the state legislature to resolve matters relating to the Agricultural Labor Relations Act of 1975.

"The growers have manufactured a phony issue, trying to frighten you to believe that property rights are in jeopardy," Chavez said. "That is not true.

"The right of access gives the union the chance to talk with workers during off-hours to give the union's side of the story. It doesn't interfere with property rights or the work product."

After calling the opposition advertisements "lies," Chavez quickly added, "But we defend the growers' right to lie to you because that's their right — all we ask is that they tell you they're lying to you."

The opponents of Prop. 14, including Nisei Farmers League President Harry Kubo and two state assemblyman, have argued that work flow would be interupted, causing an increase in the price of farm products. They have also viewed passage as a threat to property rights and a removal of flexibility from the governor and "fiscal irresponsibility," according to information contained in the state's voters pamphlet.

Chavez attempted to answer each of those charges during his speech, which was interrupted several times by applause.

"The future of the workers are in your hands," Chavez said. "We'll accept any vote you make. If you vote no against Prop. 14, we'll accept that. If you vote yes, we'll love you even more."

And with that, the county's biggest political rally in years was over. Except for more clapping.

South City Shines Up the Penny

The penny has been revived in South San Francisco.

The Parking Place Commission, responding to the concerns of a contingent of merchants, recently voted to restore the penny slot on parking meters on Grand Avenue.

Commission Chairman John Penna said it will take six to eight weeks to convert the meters.

About 15 merchants attended a meeting of the commission protesting the elimination of the penny on meters six months ago.

Penna said the commission had voted to increase the fees on meters to boost revenue and eventually to buy more land for parking lots in the crowded downtown area.

The meters, which previously accepted a penny for 12 minutes, five cents for one hour and 10 cents for two hours, were changed to collect five cents for 30 minutes, 10 cents for one hour and 25 cents for two hours.

The penny as a means to secure a parking place and make a quick purchase in a store became obsolte.

Merchants told the commission that their customers have been complaining since the meter change took effect.

"Many of the merchants felt it wasn't good for business," said Joe Rousso, president of the Downtown Merchants Association.

A Search for Identity and Life

By JACK RUSSELL

Jerry Hulse is a veteran reporter for the Los Angeles Times who travels 100,000 miles a year on his various searches for stories.

But the biggest story of his life turned out to be a highly personal one — a drama which has been converted into a slim book published by McGraw Hill, a book felt by some to be the "Love Story" of the season.

Hulse was on the Peninsula this week in a brief escape from his regular reporting duties. The book, "Jody", hit the bookstores on Monday. Excerpts appeared in the July issue of Good Housekeeping and a condensed version will appear in the November Reader's Digest.

On the strength of the excerpts several movie companies from Paramount to independent producer Frank P. Rosenberg have expressed an interest in obtaining screen rights. Rosenberg recently signed an option on the story.

The book is a chronicle of Hulse's efforts to find the real parents of his wife, Jody who was stricken with a rare disease. How Hulse succeeded in an effort to obtain a medical history in a race with possible death makes up the drama of the true story.

"I didn't even realize that I had a story until I had lunch one day with my editor at the paper," Hulse said. "He told me that I had to write it. The Times ran a 2,500 word piece on page 1 and the response was unbelieavable. People from all over reported on their own problems in attempting to learn who their real parents were."

When Hulse realized that he had the makings of a tense drama he retraced his steps to the small Indiana town where he found Jody's real mother. He took copious notes and reinterviewed the key courthouse figures who broke through the red tape.

"I am not out for a crusade on the rights of the adopted but I do feel that at least the medical records of the adoptees should be on file for immediate access. Medical records are vital in determining genetics and its influence on health," Hulse said.

"I have great compassion for all sides. The foster parents need some consideration but so does the adoptee."

"Our marriage has become much stronger since my wife learned her own identity. She had been unhappy really since the day she discovered that she did not know her real parents were. She was a fine wife but at times she seemed to be going through the motions. I would call her from the office and she seemed depressed constantly," he said.

Hulse noted that there were three deeply unhappy people involved, Jody, her real mother and her twin-brother who has become a changed person since meeting his long lost sister.

"It was a real thrill to see a life taking form. Jody was able to discover her true being in addition to obtaining the medical information needed to save her life," said Hulse.

On a lesser scale the book is a companion piece perhaps to Alex Haley's "Roots" which traces his search for identity back to a remote African tribe.

It's Official

The long-awaited North County Social Security Administration office at 232 89th St. was officially opened recently when Congressman Leo J. Ryan and Diane Albee, Miss Daly City, cut the ribbon at dedication ceremonies. Holding the ribbon are Valentine Bank (left) and Mariana Freeman, both of the staff.

SS Office Now Open

Officiating were Margaret Tang, San Mateo District Manager, and Gayla Chappell, Branch Manager.

Congressman Leo J. Ryan (11th District) dedicated the new office. He was instrumental in getting approval for a social security office for North San Mateo County. Miss Daly City, Diane Albee, and Congressman Ryan did the ribbon cutting.

Others present were Henry O. Benning, Area Director for Bay Area Social Security offices, Frank Burns, Assistant District Manager, State Senator John Foran (10th District), Peter Maskovich, manager and Chuck Turner, president of the Daly City Chamber of Commerce.

Also as guests were Alice Gonzales, coordinator of the Daly City Community Center, and her staff, Julius Castellan from Daly City Senior Nutrition and representatives from the San Mateo County Health and Welfare Department.

The new social security office, located at 323 89th St. in Daly City, will serve residents of Brisbane, Colma, Daly City, Pacifica and South San Francisco.

Portola Site Clues Uncovered?

By LIN DAY

A report of a possible major archeological discovery that would pinpoint the site of the original campground below Sweeney's Ridge west of Millbrae on Crystal Springs Lakes after Gaspar de Portola discovered San Francisco Bay remained unconfirmed this week.

The Portola Party camped originally Nov. 4, 1769 on the site, approximately 100 rods below and to the south of the Ridge and then went about the south Bay in a reconnoitering expedition seeking a way north.

It returned to the camp site Nov. 12, 1769 and recuperated — on the march to the Ridge and later, a third of the men had been ill and were carried on improvised stretchers between mules.

The discovery that has been reported to an official concerned with present commemoration activities was made by an employe of the San Francisco firm involved in the watershed

According to the report, the man saw a long human bone and found a few Spanish coins at the site. It is known that many of the Portola party were hungry and ill.

Interest has been shown in the report by scientists at the College of San Mateo and at Stanford University and it may be checked further by archeologists.

The general location of the site has long been known but has not been pinpointed. One reason is that the area has long been covered with deep water of the San Francisco reservoir. Originally, the area was one of small streams and lakes.

One report is that in the mid 1800's, a road went through the area and there was a small building or hostel in that area.

The discovery was made during a drought period when the lakes were unusually low and large stretches of land were exposed. Today, the lakes are back to a high level and the area is out of sight.

On Friday, at 10:30 a.m., the Millbrae Bicentennial Committee and the San Andreas Lake Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution were to join in placing a ten-ton serpentine boulder nearby to permanently commemorate the campsite.

It was during the preparations of the past months of this project that the information of the possible discovery surfaced.

Since that knowledge reached the commemoration sponsors, a plan to align one side of the stone to point to the actual site has been considered. Similar permanent alignments have been said to have been used at Stonehenge and in the construction of the Pyramids.

The stone was to be moved at 10:30 a.m. from a quarry in the San Francisco watershed near the Half Moon Bay road. A delegation was on hand at the site of the permanent memorial — the westerly end of Hillcrest Boulevard, Millbrae — to dedicate the stone.

Mrs. Alfred T. Hall of Millbrae, a founding member of the San Andreas Lake Chapter and its bicentennial chairman, and a member of the Millbrae Bicentennial Committee conducted the ceremonies.

The Hon. Jose DeLarios, Judge of the South San Francisco Municipal court spoke. He is president of the Portola Expedition Foundation.

The Rev. Father Joseph O'Connell of St. Dunstan's Catholic Church, Millbrae, gave the invocation and benediction.

Millbrae Mayor Bernard Esser, Councilmen Arthur LaPore, Frank Cannezaro, Mary Griffin; Ann Christi of the San Andreas DAR chapter; Alameda; and numerous civic and community leaders as well as students of history were on hand.

The Public Voice

Dear Editor:

Proponents for Prop. U are concerned over the impact of misleading information which appeared in last Wednesday's Post. We would like to correct some of the facts which were misrepresented and unfounded.

Prop. U which allows the voters to determine if they wish to increase their Police Protection Tax is greatly important because it will decide our area's future. Without this increase in police tax annexation will be imminent.

Former Police Chief Ray Savage was quoted as saying that, "They couldn't even afford to buy a new police car and God knows they need one." With the tax increase there will be ample money to purchase a new patrol car, however at this time there is no need for one. The department has two 1975 marked cars and one 1973. Projected budget figures show that there will be money to place in a reserve fund and this amount will grow each year.

McCloskey stated that there would be no guarantee that the Broadmoor residents would be asked about annexation, since they haven't been asked in the past. We are very confident that LAFCO will hold to their ruling that piecemeal annexation will not be looked upon favorably as long as services are being provided.

The Police Commission is notified of any and all annexation requests and if the commission does not fight them the community will. There is a growing respect for the unincorporated area in Redwood City City because of our hard work, persistence and our determination to remain as we are.

Commercial properties will not be seeking annexation as McCloskey has stated. They are in support of Prop. U and have offered their financial support in our campaign.

Police Commissioner Jack McCloskey, who opposed helping Prop. U reach the voters, has never contacted the Committee for Prop. U to obtain information on this measure.

We feel that it is his duty to present all the facts to the community and not just the facts as he believes them. He has continuously made statements which have been only half true.

Proponents for Prop. U want the voters to have all the facts.

This is a very important ballot measure and feelings, rumors and past history should not be the only factors in which they determine their vote.

The county has all the figures and LAFCO had made its ruling. These things may be verified.

EERIE, COMPELLING 'MAKROPULOS CASE'

Janacek's eerie score weaves in and around the potently sexual psychological thriller, "The Makropulos Case," and enhances the aura of mystery without ever becoming either background or harmonically supportive of the play by Karel Capek.

Because of its unusualness, veteran opera-goers seemed tempted to compare the current production that opened at the Opera House this week with the San Francisco Opera's 1966 production. They may not have liked it but its haunting fascination brought back many of the same patrons and in both instances, the dramatic sopranos of the late Marie Collier ('66) and Anja Silja ('76) in the powerfully dramatic role of a 342 year old femme fatale are the attraction.

Silja has total command of the forecful role although her heavy German accent makes it almost impossible to understand even one word of the English dialogue. But a quick perusal of the program will make what she is saying clear enough and there is such a barrage of dialogue from those around her, the problem is not grave. Annoying, but not crucial.

What really matters is that she chillingly realizes the dark, sinister and almost science fiction aspect of the secret of life by her superb acting. Even without the opaque light that seems to emanate from her person, courtesy of Thomas Munn's creative design, Silja projects the kind of dynamism that is theatrically believable. She seems to have an inner glow and the effect of her shapely figure encased in turn-of-the-century Edwardian finery gives her an icy regality and a plastic beauty.

Having drunk the potion of everlasting life, Emilia Marty who moves from Elina Makropulos of the 16th century to the key witness in an inheritance law suit in the 20th century uses a haughty manner to secure the Greek document that will award her another 300 years. But there is no joy in perpetual youth after the soul has died and although her beauty drives men crazy, her disintegration is moral rather than physical. Her metamorphosis in the final scene turns her into a white-haired hag as one of her admirers seizes the secret formula and burns it as a loathsome curse on mankind.

Silja's voice has the Wagnarian and Straussian emotional impact that makes "Makropulos" blaze with bold slashes and strokes of harsh musical color like the vibrancy of Picasso's blue period portraits.

William Lewis, as her ardent suitor Albert Gregorwho is spurned and scorned but masochistically comes begging for more, is characterized by a passionate lyric tenor.

Geraint Evans is marvelous (when isn't he) as the aristocratic Prus who exchanges the precious document for one night of love with the imperious beauty only to yell "I've been cheated" when she remains cold in his embrace. The audience got a big laugh out of this line.

Raymond Manton, Pamela South and Joshua Hecht give substantial support to the strange but absorbing music-drama. The score is not one of lavish orchestration and there were long periods when I was oblivious to the music altogether. But it shows Christoph Von Dohnanyi's sure ear for the dominant rhythms of the human voice that Janacek had in mind.

Neighborhood parents and children may join in the afternoon festivities.

All games can be played for a penny. Spook house admission is 5 cents.

A disco dance for teens only is scheduled from 11:30 p.m. Admission is 50 cents.

Cyclers to Assist the Heart Fund

The 1976 Cycleteon, sponsored by the San Mateo County Heart Association, will be held Nov. 7.

"Bicycle riders of all ages are needed to ride with sponsor backing on the day of the event," said Georgianne Black, chairwoman of the 1976 Cyclethon.

"We are especially interested in families who enjoy cycling together, groups of school students who would like to form a cycling party and all types of clubs and organizations who like to get together for a worthy cause," she said.

The Heart Association has been conducting Cyclethons since 1974. Each year many local groups and merchants donate prizes that are presented to cyclists who raise money for Heart.

The course selected for this event is 21 miles long and has five check points where riders may enter or leave the ride.

This course was chosen for accessability and safety for the riders.

Volunteers will be on hand to fix small bike problems, administer minor first aid and generally supervise the course.

"Heart disease is still the nation's number one killer-crippler," Ms. Black said. The San Mateo County Heart Association must seek many ways to raise money to finance research, public education and community programs.

C.O.P.E. (Change Our Polluted Environment) is one of Serramonte High School's many clubs.

C.O.P.E. is an ecology-oriented club dealing with correcting and preserving our precious, yet polluted, environment.

Members of C.O.P.E. can explore almost any aspect of ecology that interests them. In the past, many members have taken an active part in ecology related legislation such as Proposition 15 in the last election.

If members are interested in working with animals, they have access to the school's Community Environmental Education Program's farm.

This year's members include David Brock, Laura Bugler, Roger Campos, Patty Cipriano, Mary Davis, Nancy Ginesi, Anna Olague, Elizabeth Mesen, Duncan McNeil, Chris Roy, and Megan Walker. The advisor is Abe Evenich.

C.O.P.E.'s plans for this year include its annual dinner and participation in the Serramonte and Jefferson High School's Environmental Education Program's Trash-A-Thon.

ON NOVEMBER 6, the students will be covering Daly City picking up cans, bottles, paper, and other trash on the ground.

Prior to the Trash-A-Thon, students will be collecting pledges for each mile that they walk.

The annual Trash-A-Thon will not only prove to be a good fund-raiser for the Environmental Education Program but will also help to make Daly City a nicer and cleaner place to live.

ANOTHER FORTHCOMING EVENT is Serramonte's Homecoming Nov. 5.

During the school day, there will be elections for freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior prince and princess as well as the senior election for king and queen.

Becky Roxas, Rally Commissioner, is planning a fantastic rally to promote spirit for the home football game against Westmoor that follows the rally.

A dance is being planned for that night by a homecoming committee. The winners of the election will be announced at the dance.

This year's Homecoming looks as if it will be the best one Serramonte has ever had.

If you note a shortage of pre-teen girls around town on Saturday there is a good explanation. It is Brownie Play Day at Camp Ida Smith.

Local troops and the adult leaders have been signed up for several weeks now and everyone is eagerly awaiting this special outting with its emphasis on outdoor biological study.

Mrs. Carmen Fry is in charge of the arrangments for this event and she is accepting calls for sign-ups and general information.

Busy with the final arrangments for Saturday's big reunion are the members of the board of directors of the alumni of St. Joseph's school of nursing.

Ann Theis, publicity chairwoman, has been having loads of fun with the novel invitation sent by the board to the alumni, urging them to attend this festive dinner-dance with a bicentennial theme.

The invitation, whimsically intertwining the occassion of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the school with the nation's 200th birthday, encourages all the graduates to share memories and news during an elegant evening in the Presidio Officers Club.

For additional information about the reunion, write Mrs. Carolyn Piazza, 2315 Adeline Drive, Burlingame.

Save your pennies and save the day, Nov. 4. It is the time to go on a holiday shopping spree!

The annual Boutique de Noel sponsored by the Mary's Help Hospital Guild, will open in just one week in the solarium of Mary's Help Hospital. Mrs. Millie Dunow has been chairing this undertaking and she and the members of her committee are extremely proud of the selection of gift, food and decorator items that they have assembled for the sale.

Always the mainstay of a project of this type, the volunteers who man the sales booths, are all assigned locations and they have all been given directions to be ready for a busy evening when guests are invited to take a preview look at the sale items and sip a little champagne beginning at 7 p.m. on Nov. 4.

New members of the guild, who will be getting their first look at the boutique from behind a sales counter are Mrs. Jeannette Collins and Patricia Raineri.

While you are in the hospital, you might like to take a peak at the huge selection of Christmas cards being displayed in the solarium. Mrs. Fran Gaffigan is in charge of the card sale and orders take about two weeks to process so don't delay too long!

1 cup raisins
½ cup chopped nuts

In large mixing bowl blend the two-thirds cup margarine, half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon and three-fourths teaspoon ginger. Add the one and one-fourth cups sugar gradually and cream well. Add the egg and beat. Stir in the fourth cup molasses and mix well. Dissolve the one and one-half teaspoons soda in the fourth cup water. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with the three cups flour, mixing well after each addition. Add the one cup raisins and half cup nuts. Pour into greased 9x13-inch baking pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and frost lightly.

FROSTING

3 Tablespoons margarine
2 cups sifted powdered sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla
2 Tablespoons milk
Yellow food coloring

Cream the three tablespoons margarine in medium bowl. Add the two cups powdered sugar alternately with the two tablespoons milk, beating after each addition. Add the one-fourth teaspoon vanilla and the food coloring. This amount frosts the molasses bars lightly.

Samuel Chandler

By SAMUEL C. CHANDLER

The President.

He who presides.

"The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States."

"He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and together with the vice president, chosen for the same term, be elected . . ."

Thirty-seven men have become President of the United States. The youngest, Theodore Roosevelt, was 42 years old when he assumed office; the oldest, William Henry Harrison, was 68 and died within a month after his inauguration.

THE AVERAGE PRESIDENT has been 55 when he assumed office. He was 5 ft. 11 in. and weighed 180 pounds. Yet James Madison was 5 ft. 4 while William Howard Taft weighed 325 pounds. Most of the presidents have been in good health, yet Andrew Jackson suffered from old wounds.

Kennedy had a war-related back injury and F. D. Roosevelt was a cripple. Prior to 1960, 17 presidents had seen military duty as Army officers. Since 1960, however, every man who has been President was at one time an officer in the Navy. More Presidents have had blue eyes than any other color, more have had red-brown hair than either blond or black hair. Most have been Easterners.

John Quincy Adams was the son of President John Adams. Upon his election his father wrote, "No man who ever held the office of President would congratulate another of obtaining it."

Nevertheless, John Adams ran for President two times and was most reluctant to give up the job. Thomas Jefferson called the Presidency "the splendid misery" and said that whenever a man casts a longing eye on the office a rottenness begins in his conduct. Yet Jefferson ran for President three times and directed the campaigns of at least two other men.

THINKING OF WHY MEN RUN FOR PRESIDENT, Grover Cleveland said, "This office-seeking is a disease. It is even catching," as a candidate was forced to stand by while voters examined the most intimate details of his life. During his second campaign people said, "Grover, Grover, Four more years of Grover. Out they'll go. Then we'll be in clover."

After watching the campaigns and the administrations of the presidents of the nineteenth century, Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote, "But the President has paid dear for his White House. It has commonly cost him all his peace and the best of his manly attributes." Nevertheless, every president has actively sought the job.

In choosing a President some of the best advice to voters comes from the September/October issue of the Montgomery Ward Auto Club News. "It takes more than a pretty face to be President of the United States. The truth is, we fortunately live in a country where we can elect the man we feel will do the best job, regardless of where he was born, how tall he is, how many children he has, or whether he was or was not an officer in one of our armed services." A concerned voter votes intelligently.

Pumpkin Carving, Dances At 4 Community Centers

The Community Center carnivals will be held between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the following Community Centers: Pedro Valley, Ortega, Pacific Manor and Fairmont Shopping Center.

Activities at the carnivals will include food, games of skill and chance, costume parades, a cake walk, prizes and fun for the entire family for only pennies.

All seventh and eighth graders are invited to share the music, activities and fun at either San Andreas School or Ortega School. J-Teen members 25 cents with costume, 50 cents without costume and $2 for new members.

The department will be sponsoring a trip to the Stanford v.s. Oregon State Football Game for third through sixth graders on Oct. 30 from 11:30 to 6 p.m.

The price of the trip is $4.50 and includes transportation and admission to the game. The child must bring a bag lunch or lunch money.

Permission slips may be obtained from your recreation leader at Ortega, Pedro Valley, Pacific Manor, and Westview Community Centers. The deadline for sign-ups is today at 5:30 p.m.

The ninth Annual Portola Discovery Site Hike will be held Nov. 6.

The day's program will commence at 10 a.m. in the Crespi School Multi-Purpose Room, 840 Fassler Ave., with the showing of the slide presentation "The Pictorial Story of the Discovery of San Francisco Bay."

Following the slide presentation, the group will leave Crespi School and walk to the top of Fassler Avenue where the hike will begin.

The dedication ceremonies of Bicentennial Grove II will take place on Saturday, Nov. 6 at 11 a.m. at Frontierland Park.

The ceremonies will be held on the top level of the park, which is easily accessible from the second level parking lot. Everyone is invited to attend.

Scouts to Learn Strategy

Brownie Play Day, featuring Outdoor Biological Instructional Strategies for younger Scouts will be held Oct. 30 at Camp Ida Smith under the direction of Joan Stewart.

Daly City Brownie troop leaders are required to make reservations with Mrs. Stewart.

November 1 is a double deadline for the Daly City Girl Scout Association as all Senior and Cadette Girl Scout Wider Opportunity applications must be turned in by that date and troop leaders and troop cookie chairmen must turn in their orders for Girl Scout cookies by that same date.

Horatio Hornblower Expert Back in DC

At a command performance for a return engagement, Retired Navy Commander John Dale Pye Hodapp Jr. will discuss C. S. Forester, author of many novels and creator of the romantic Victorian naval hero Captain Horatio Hornblower, for The Friends of the Daly City Library and their guests 7:30 p.m. Nov. 4, in the community room, Serramonte Library.

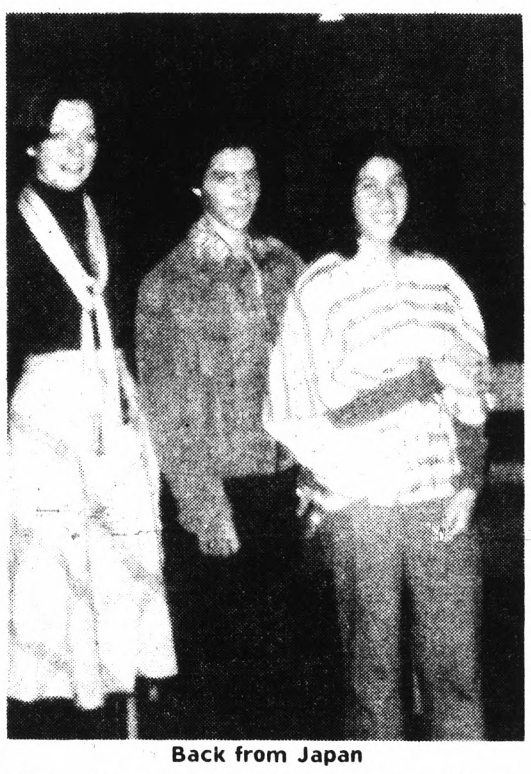

According to Book Review Chairwoman Mrs. Joseph Canada, the event has been re-scheduled for even hours so that business and professional people may attend. Hodapp will also touch on new areas for those who attended his March review.

Commander Hodapp was born in Manila, the Philippines. He was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., and first saw sea duty in 1939.

During his naval career, he held a number of both sea and shore commands and speaks fluent Chinese.

His path crossed Forester's when for 2½ years he was the author's literary assistant in Berkeley. Hodapp now resides in the East Bay, but before his final retirement from civilian occupation March 1 of this year, was a resident of San Francisco.

A hospitality period will follow the program.

Back from Japan

These three students — Julie Fabrique of Serramonte High School, Dean Collis of Westmoor and Anita McGrath of Jefferson — recently returned from summers in Japan, each living for six weeks with Japanese families. The three were feted by the Lions and Rotary Clubs of Daly City recently, the groups that sponsored the trips. The students are available to speak and show slides to community groups.

Halloween Party Set At Broadmoor Church

The annual Halloween Party will be held Friday at the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 337 - 87th St., Daly City. This 6:30 p.m. event begins with a potluck supper with those attending bringing a salad, hot dish and table service.

Children are encouraged to come in costumes which will be judged for awards. Youth and adults may wear costumes.

There will be a haunted house, apple bobbing, pumpkin cutting and various games for all.

This event is arranged by the deacons, helped by the United Presbyterian Women and actually put on the Mariners Club for married couples with Bill and Dale Powers in charge.

The Sunday School and church worship service are held at 10 a.m. with a friendly coffee time following in the social hall at 11:10.

Infant care is provided during these events. The Rev. Herbert Tweedie is the pastor.

Public Works Book Presented Library

David K. Macabee, City Engineer, recently presented on behalf of the Public Works Department of the City of Daly City a copy of the "History of Public Works in the United States 1776-1976" to Samuel Chandler, City Librarian.

The volume, undertaken as the official bicentennial project of the American Public Works Association, is a comprehensive publication about the development of public works systems in the United States and is based on materials provided by federal, state, and local units of government.

Public works projects have made it possible for the people of the United States to achieve the highest standard of living in the world.

History of Public Works is a compilation of significant contributions to the growth of the nation by such public works projects as transportation networks; facilities to control floods and provide drainage; water supply systems for domestic, agricultural, industrial and power-generating needs; public buildings required for health services, education, defense, housing, and recreation; waste collection, treatment, and disposal systems as well as facilities for harnessing the power of the atom and exploring space.

Debate Over Bay Management Plans

By VERN KROGH

The time has come for man to control himself rather than to rely on plans if he is to save his environment.

This is, in essence, was the message given a "Bay Day: Critical Decisions" meeting by Dr. Claybourne Carson, assistant professor of urban and Afro-American history at Stanford University, Friday afternoon.

He was countered sharply, however, at the meeting in the Pacific Gas & Electric building in San Francisco by Supervisor Dianne Feinstein of San Francisco, in her capacity as chairman of the Association of Bay Area Governments Environmental Management Plan, also known as the "208 Plan."

The meeting in the auditorium of the utilities company building was followed by a cruise so the audience could see first hand the poor environmental spots in the Bay.

Carson compared the recent Fourth of July celebrating the Nation's nations bicentennial, "in which almost nothing happened," to "the events 200 years ago in which people took their destinies into their own hands."

But, because of "continued apathy," Carson said now is the time to step back and look at ourselves.

"The quality of environment has always been of deep concern to the history of this nation," he said. "In 1905 a citizen of San Francisco, David Burnham, developed a comprehensive plan, including a subway system, a perimeter highway and comprehensive planning for the Peninsula."

But, as in too many plans, Carson insisted, too many leaders were concerned about a threat to their place in the social system and nothing was done.

"General systems theory leads us to control of the environment," he said. "It is a useful idea, but it is weakened by refusal to include dynamics such of those of the human body.

"The general trend in social sciences is that we must change our surroundings. But history puts forward an alternative solution — we are related to the past and we must change ourselves. We have done little to change our environment.

"The danger is to see ourselves not only as an outcome of the past but as a result of the many other things that have happened.

"We had better control ourselves, rather than try to change our environment. We have a social system that is technologically rampant and socially conservative. Why is it we can bring down oil from Alaska but we cannot leap over local boundaries to solve our problems? Planners have succeeded in using local powers to promote business interests. Zoning, for example, has been used to keep those down down and those up up.

"Too often the cost is left as a burden to forthcoming generations. Comprehensive regional government still remains a dream because local interests are protected by smaller political entities."

Mrs. Feinstein responded, "Dr. Carson gave us a very interesting theory. You can have the best of instituions, the best of theories and plans, but nothing ain't gonna happen if the people won't follow."

Pointing to the killing of Lake Erie, she said, "In this area we have 93 cities, 588 special districts, 206 school districts and 15 regional districts." She said 49,000 families are looking for homes when only 28,000 are being built. There are 25,000 minority unemployed, and, "we won't straighten this out unless we streamline government."

"The 208 Plan," she said, is the only "possible plan" because it will take up the problems of water and air pollution and other problems on a regional basis.

But, she warned, it will not work unless accepted by local governments.

Many San Mateo cities, for example, Mrs. Feinstein charged, are unwilling to go along with the plan.

She said, "We must go into the counties and the cities amd convince them they should enter the plan.

Otherwise, Mrs. Feinstein warned, the state and federal government will do the job themselves without local input.

"We know unless we do something to improve the water we drink, the air we breath, we won't have to worry what kind of schools our grandchildren will attend."

Others participating in the conference, which went into its second day this morning at the Hastings College of Law in San Francisco, were Dr. B.J. Miller, coordinator for the 208 Plan for A.B.A.G; Gene Leong, manager of air and water quality control for A.B.A.G.; Angelo Siracusa, of the Bay Area Council; Barbara Eastman, a director of the Regional Water Quality Control Board; Arliss Ungar, of the League of Women Voters; Bruce Sievers of the California Humanities Council, and Mayor Ilene Weinreb of Hayward, who acted as moderator.

Co-sponsoring the two-day work session was the League of Women Voters of Palo Alto, the Bay Area Governments Citizens Alliance Program and the California Council for Humanities in Public Policy.

Ryan Levels Campaign Charge

By DAN COOK

Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, late Friday filed a complaint with the Federal Election Commission charging his opponent, Belmont City Councilman Robert A. Jones with violating federal campaign laws.

Jones immediately denied that federal law had been violated.

Ryan, in a letter to William Oldaker, assistant general counsel for compliance, said his complaint was filed pursuant to 2 U.S. Code Section 437 g.

"The election for the office of member of the U. S. House of Representatives from the Eleventh Congressional District, California, will be held Nov. 2," Ryan said. "I realize you will probably not have time to complete an investigation prior to that date."

"However, the main issue involved, that of unearned or partially unearned dual corporate salaries to a candidate while campaigning for federal office is so important to the intent of the Federal Election Campaign Act that I urgently request that you continue your investigation for whatever length of time after the election date as is necessary to resolve this issue," Ryan told Oldaker.

Ryan has charged that the use of a Cadillac sedan by Jones in his campaign, a car leased by Money Market Services, Inc., of which Jones is president, is a violation of the law prohibiting a gift by a corporation of in-kind services.

Jones' use of the car, and a listing of remuneration for its use to Money Market Services, Inc. was reported on the FEC-mandated Report of Receipts and Expenditures report on Oct. 8.

Ryan charged that the car's use was not listed on required reports on four occasions — April 10, 10 days after the before the June primary, 13 days after the June primary, and July 10 — and that failures to report the gift is a violation of the law.

Ryan added in a second complaint that salaries received from Money Market Services, Inc., and from Chase Econometrics Associates constitute a violation of the law as illegal corporate campaign gifts.

Jones is vice president and director of financial forecasting for Chase Econometrics, as well as owner of half the shares of Money Market Services, Inc. The remaining 50 per cent ownership is held by Dr. Michael K. Evans.

Paul Carters Wed At SF Mission

Camping at Lake Tahoe on their honeymoon are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ernest Carter (Maria Elena Vasquez) who will be making their first home in San Carlos.

The newlyweds exchanged vows Saturday afternoon at Mission Dolores Basilica in San Francisco. A reception followed at the Rodeway Inn in South San Francisco. The Rev. Douglas LaRocca officiated.

Maria Elena, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. German Vasquez of San Francisco, said her vows in a white organza gown appliqued with roses at the sleeves, bodice and edge of the dress. The costume also featured a gathered waist, long sleeves and a scoop neckline.

Pamela Morrama, the matron of honor, wore a pale yellow gown with a ruffled collar and ruffle detailing down the side and on the hemline. She carried white gladioli and yellow roses. A similar dress and bouquet were chosen by Susan Carter, sister of the bridegroom, who served as the secondary attendant.

Mary Frances Juvera, the flower girl for her cousin's wedding, wore a pale yellow frock and carried a white basket filled with yellow and white carnations. Steven Juvera, another cousin of the bride, carried the rings.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hickey of Austin, Tex., and Archibald Newton of Australia.

The bridegroom is the son of Mark D. Carter of South San Francisco and the late Mrs. Carter. He also has another sister, Barbara Flores of South San Francisco. A graduate of South San Francisco High School, he is employed as a painter.

The bride, who has been living in San Francisco, is an alumna of Presentation High School in that city and has been employed by the County of San Mateo's Building Construction and General Services.

Judge Rules Adult Bookstore Stays Open

Superior Court Judge Thomas Jenkins ruled Friday that a South San Francisco adult bookstore can continue to operate as long as movie "peep show" machines are not hooked up.

Judge Jenkins ordered only that bookstore proprietor Earl Kuhns must adhere to the state Uniform Building Code and that signs limiting the occupancy to 50 persons be posted.

If Kuhns does decide to hookup the three or four peep show machines which are already sitting in the store at 107 Grand Ave., the city will have a reason to seek that it be shut down by the court, the judge said.

"I suspect we will all be back here again," Judge Jenkins added.

The judge said he has no authority to act before the machines are installed.

The adult bookstore has been fought vigorously by city officials, the City Council and many residents.

The council turned down Kuhns' use permit application two months ago on the basis of its possible conflict with existing land use and zoning.

But after the rejection, Kuhns' attorney, Joseph Rhine of San Francisco, advised his client to open his store anyway. It's Rhine's contention that Kuhns is in compliance with city ordinances and zoning laws.

City Atty. John Noonan and city building officials have argued that movie peep show machines constitute a movie theater and that Kuhns must add a second exit to the building to comply with codes.

Rhine counters that peep shows do not turn the building into a movie theater and that the one exit in the former bar is sufficient.

Noonan argued in court Friday that Kuhns has threatened to hook up the peep shows.

"Our whole thesis is to protect the public," Noonan said. "The threats are there." If the building is to include peep shows, he said, it must have two exits, claiming that without two exits, the building is not safe.

"The problem here is a threat to public safety," he said.

Kuhns proposed in his use permit application 15 peep show machines and 15 amusement machines along with latex novelty items.

Noonan said the city is not attempting to close down the building because of the adult books being sold. A bookstore, he said the city realizes, does not require a use permit. He said the only request the city can make at this time — despite the adamant disapproval of the store — is a prohibition on the use of peep show machines.

"If he provides a second exit, we couldn't even ask for that," Noonan said.

Rhine said it is the first time he can recall being involved in a preliminary injunction hearing in which the argument is something that may or may not occur.

"Mr. Kuhns has operated within the law within this jurisdiction in putting up the establishment," Rhine said.

Judge Jenkins at one point chided Rhine and his client, who was not present, for leaving the City Council and Planning Commission meetings before official decisions were made.

He said they should have used their only vehicle for "self-help" at the city level.

Rhine said he faced an obviously "hostile and unfriendly crowd, if I could use the light term for it," at the city meetings and that the decisions were already made before he got there.

Rhine also said after the hearing that he does not know if Kuhns will install the movie machines immediately.

Only three or four of the machines are on the premises. "I think when the general population of South San Francisco realizes they have no legal right to close down bookstores, it will lessen pressure considerably," the attorney said.

Credential Revocation Study

By JANET PARKER

Judge Thomas Jenkins has ordered the California Commission for Teacher Preparation and Licensing to consider revoking the credentials of seven South San Francisco teachers.

The court order, issued this week in Redwood City, is another off-shoot of a two-week teachers strike that occurred in the South San Francisco Unified School District in May 1975.

The order was sought by the SSFUSD Board of Trustees.

Deputy Atty. General Robert Murphy in San Francisco said he has not decided if he will recommend that the commission comply or seek an appeal to a higher court.

Murphy said the commission had refused to hold hearings concerning charges against the seven teachers because they were not the kind of charges over which the commission might revoke or suspend credentials.

Last November the SSFUSD Board of Trustees sent registered letters to seven teachers listing charges against them in connection with the two-week strike.

They are asked to appear before the board and informally answer to the charges but they did not accept that opportunity.

All seven teachers are members of the California Teachers Association and were participants in the turbulent strike.

The charges reportedly concern teacher conduct on the picket line and at meetings during that district-wide walk-out.

Deputy District Attorney Lee Port, the district's counsel, said the district asked the state commission in May to hold hearings concerning the charges.

The commission refused and the district sought legal action to Force these hearings to be held.

"All they said is that it was a labor situation and they did not want to intervene," Fort said. "They didn't even look at the conduct involved."

Murphy said that even if the charges listed in those letters are true the commission has no authority to suspend or revoke the credentials.

He cited three Education Code sections which outline the specific criteria for revoking teaching credentials.

Included are "immoral and unprofessional conduct, persistent denial of laws regulating persons serving the public school system and unfitness for service." Another grounds for revocation is conviction of a crime.

"The commission decided there were not sufficient grounds to suspend or revoke licenses even if the allegations were proven," Murphy said.

He said it probably will be several weeks before he will make a recommendation to the commission to hold the hearing or to appeal to a higher court.

Port said she found the commission's procedure "peculiar."

The commission, she said, decided that it had exercised its discretion and met the requirements of the law in not holding a hearing.

"I found that rather odd," she said.

She said the seven teachers were singled out after more than 100 letters from parents and community members complaining of various teacher activities during the strike were filed.

"All of these are ones the district thought were offensive," she said.

Port said all seven were invited to appear before the board and provide an explanation of their activity in a closed-door informal session.

Since none of the seven did so, the district had no alternative but to seek a hearing before the state board, she said.

Saturday Family Day Bay Meadows Track

Every Saturday is "family day" at BAY MEADOWS, with an open house program in the morning and the infield now open in the afternoon for picnics, lawn parties and what have you. The open house programs get under way at 8 a.m. in the clubhouse area with the viewing of morning workouts and racing films, followed by a series of training races and then a tour of the barn area. One of the hosts for the festivities is John "The Count" Montefusco, the San Francisco Giants pitcher who came up with a no-hitter against the Atlanta Braves in his final start of the 1976 season. "The Count" loves to meet the kids — and grown ups, too — and is ready and willing to sign autographs. There is no charge for the open house progran, which concludes at approximately 10:30 a.m. With a tunnel having recently been constructed leading from the grandstand area to the infield, the latter is now open on Saturdays and holidays, weather permitting. There are betting windows, refreshment stands and closed circuit televion available in the area behind the totalizator board. It marks the first time in Northern California racing history the action can be observed "from the other side of the track". In the two weeks the new area has been open, many families have taken advantage of it. There is no additional charge, just the regular grandstand admission price of $2.25, with children, who must be accompanied by adults, getting in free. Why not make a day of it at Bay Meadows? Enjoy the finest in food and beverages.

CCC Asks Director Restored

A request of the County Coordinating Council on Developmental Disabilities that the position of program coordinator for the council be restored, has been referred to the Department of Health and Welfare by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The position, held by Libby Lanborn until her resignation last June, was deleted during county budget hearings in July.

Elsie Vickery, president of the council, and other speakers appeared before the Board of Supervisors Tuesday to urge that the coordinator position be reinstated.

Mrs. Vickery said the position is "absolutely essential" to deal with the developmentally disabled person, parents, relatives teachers and other interested person.

Another speaker, Sue Sweeney, said the county may be losing the opportunity to obtain funding for new services through the lack of coordinator who would be aware of funding sources and programs.

Supervisor John M. Ward, noting that the Mental Health Advisory Board also is seeking a paid staff, suggested that the Department of Health and Welfare study the possibility of a combined position, with a coordinator who could serve both the council and the advisory board.

In its action, the Board of Supervisors agreed to request that the department explore Ward's proposal.

Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco Jr., expressing concern that the Board of Supervisors charged the council with the responsibility of coordinating needs and services to the developmentally disabled in 1970, "and now wants to withhold financing," offered a motion that the coordinator position be reinstated and financed from the county general fund. His motion failed to receive a second.

The board directed that the staff return with a report and recommendation at the Dec. 7 meeting.

Seniors Are Needed in Community

In July 1973, North San Mateo County Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) came into existence. After three months of operation, there were only 12 members.

That number has jumped to more than 300 persons over 60 years of age putting into the community 160,000 hours of volunteer work.

A Recognition Luncheon was held at the Blue Peacock Restaurant in Millbrae to honor the senior volunteers who have put in volunteer service hours in 86 different non-profit agencies. Assemblyman Louis Papan, (D-San Mateo County), was the keynote speaker. Edward Bacciocco Jr., San Mateo County supervisor, presented certificates to the seniors.

John Ingham, ACTION — Region IX, spoke on ACTION projects in the community.

RSVP Volunteers are performing in a wide variety of services, all designed to enrich the quality of life in their communities for people of all ages.

In South San Francisco, many volunteers are working in Kaiser Hospital in all phases of the hospital making life more cheerful for both the patients and their families.

At St. Veronica School, volunteers are helping children with reading, math, spelling and just listening to a child's problems. Many times the older volunteer is the only person who has time to listen and council with the child.

In Burlingame, an 83-year-old man and his wife spend many hours gathering books and magazines for the U.S.O. and clothing for the Veterans' Hospital.

Senior volunteers are putting many hours in at Traveler's Aid at the Airport helping weary people on their way.

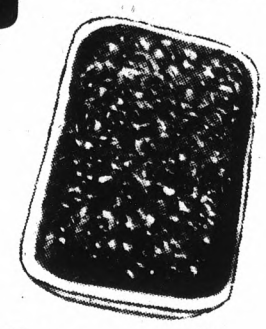

Many R.S.V.P. volunteers put in hundreds of hours with the Friendly Visiting Service.

Driving Program Urged

The Citizens Task Force on County Governmental Operations recommended Thursday that the county institute a diversion program for drunken drivers, but Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson said he will have none of it.

Hazel Campbell appeared before the County Board of Supervisors on behalf of the task force to recommend a diversion program which would require persons arrested a second time for drunken driving to enter an alcoholism rehabilitation program as an alternative to losing his or her driver's license.

The rationale, she explained, is that a person would not face loss of a job as a result of having his license suspended or revoked.

Mrs. Campbell noted that diversion programs of one sort or another are in effect in counties with nearly 88 per cent of the state's population.

Senate Bill 330, which provides a diversion program, is on trial in four counties and is scheduled to go into effect statewide in 1978.

Supervisor John M. Ward commented that Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D, San Mateo County, who authored the bill, has stated that any county using the program (outside the four trial counties) would be in violation of the law and state procedures. He suggested that the county wait until Jan. 1, 1978, to consider instituting the program.

Sorenson, who said he supported SB 330, said he wants to know the results of the trial program.

"I want to determine the degree of recividism, and the danger to the population of persons driving again without the sanction of losing their license," he said.

Sorenson said he hasn't ascertained why other counties are permitting diversion programs without benefit of the law.

"I don't think it is appropriate to do so," he stated. "I will not allow it in San Mateo County and reduce the safety of the public. People expect a prosecutor to comply with the law."

Sorenson claimed the only aim of the diversion program is to restore driving privileges to the second offender.

"The risk is too great," he stated.

Waiting one year, the district attorney said, will provide the time to determine the validity of the alcoholism programs.

"I don't see how restoring a license will work if the threat of the loss of a job won't," he said.

Attorney Dick Bennett of San Mateo, speaking in support of a diversion program, said that if only 10 per cent of those pass, "that's good; we'll save those who want to be saved."

Board Chairman William H. Royer expressed surprise that the board doesn't have the discretion to institute a diversion program.

Judge Won't Ban Pacifica Plant

By DUANE SANDUL

Pacifica city officials cleared a legal hurdle Thursday in their drive to build a new sewage treatment plant when Superior Court Judge Thomas M. Jenkins refused to issue an order halting the project.

An environmentalist group called AWARE had sought such an order on the basis that the new plant's design is too small because it allegedly was based on inaccurate population projections in 1973.

Judge Jenkins, following a 70-minute hearing, said, "The court is sympathetic to the position taken by AWARE and the court is concerned about the expenditure of funds which might be based on misinoformation . . . but the issue is an order to show cause and the court must find illegality, waste or injury detrimental to the plaintiff. I find no such evidence."

Judge Jenkins, a former mayor of San Carlos and former high-ranking officer in the California League of Cities, suggested several times that he may agree with the position advanced by AWARE (Active Women Advancing a Responsible Environment) but that he was without legal authority to do anything.

"I find that I have no authority to substitute my judgment for theirs (the city council) on judgmental matters," Judge Jenkins told Charles Kinney, attorney for Vi Gotelli and AWARE.

The decision came only hours after councilmen awarded a contract to a firm to build the new plant.

City Atty. Gloria Scheid said construction may begin soon.

The city and the state attorney general office's will seek to dismiss the suit entirely on Oct. 28 on the grounds that the plaintiffs did not allege a triable issue.

Kinney insisted that the proposed design of the new plant, 4-2 million gallons capacity per day, is too little because it was designed on 1973-74 Department of Finance population projections which he called erroneous. He sought an order halting the beginning until a greater capacity was designed.

"The Department of Finance has an obligation to recheck its figures," Kinney argued.

Ms. Scheid said there is no law which compels or allows the state to recheck the figures, but even if there was, "It is the city council which determines the ultimate capacity of the sewage plant."

She and Judge Jenkins then exchanged views on the population of Pacifica, with Jenkins asserting, "I'm sure that evidence would establish that the Department of Finance figures are wrong" and that Pacifica is growing and did not peak out as initially envisioned.

Yet, the judge indicated, he lacked authority to do anything about it.

"Value judgments were made by elected officials based on the data before them," Judge Jenkins said of the council action establishing the capacity. "It may well have been inaccurate data. What legal authority do I have to exert my judgment over the council's?"

Kinney was unable to convince the judge that there was any authority.

The judge methodically established, through the arguments of the attorneys themselves and their responses to his questions, that there a ppeared to be no evidence of illegality in awarding the contract and no evidence of wasteful expenditure of public funds.

Had he found irreparable damage to the plaintiff by virtue of the plant being constructed as planned, an order could have been issued. But he didn't.

Attorney David F. Abelson, representing the state Water Resource Control Board, argued that postponement of the project could result in Pacifica losing $4.5 million in federal funds for the project as well as state funds.

"A delay would raise the ultimate cost," Abelson said.

New Man on the Job

San Mateo County's Agricultural Commissioner's office has a new man in charge, George Ginilo of Daly City, at right. His appointment was confirmed this week by the Board of Supervisors represented here by Chairman William H. Royer. The department monitors quality control at the Golden Gate Produce Terminal in South San Francisco, and performs a variety of consumer services under state law.

Le Pacini

(First of a Series)

Babe Herman. A name as synonymous with the skull as the other Babe's is with the homerun. Babe Herman, the daffiest of the Brooklyn "Daffyness Boys." Babe Herman, who doubled into a double play. Who let homerun hitters pass him on the bases. Who gave headshots to fly balls. Who carried lit cigars in his pockets. Babe Herman, baseball's quintessential screwup.

That is Babe Herman's image, and until recently, he not only lived happily with it, but often encouraged it. "When I'd give my after dinner speeches about me, Dazzy and Chick all on third base at the same time, I would build it up, you know?" But now Babe is 73 and no longer daffy, if he ever really was, and he isn't in the Hall of Fame, and no less an authority than Casey Stengel thought he should have made it 20 years ago, and what Case says is good enough for Babe.

TO UNDERSTAND WHY FLOYD CAVES HERMAN became baseball's prototype klutz is to understand that the Dodgers weren't always one of the classiest, most successful organizations in professional baseball.

Babe got his reputation in the '20s, an era when the Dodgers lived in Flatbush, a location which drew chuckles by its mere mention on any radio comedy show of its day. The fans didn't barbeque steaks in their patios on weekends.

They barbequed ball players whose reactions they could actually see at cozy Ebbets Field, which was ramshackled when it was built. The Dodgers, or Robins, as they were then called, not only seldom won, but their losses were often foolishly attained. And the Robins were managed by chubby Wilbert Robinson, who didn't always encourage faith among the Brooklyn faithful.

Uncle Robbie was a man half a century ahead of his time. He was an indulgent manager. The kids today would have loved him with the same intensity as they would have hated John McGraw. When the Dodgers were in a slump, which was often, it wasn't unusual for Robbie to allow one of his players to make his lineup card.

Once he listed Dick Cox in the lineup because he couldn't spell the name of the regular right fielder, Oscar Roettiger.

When owner Charley Ebbets died, it was Robinson who insisted the game scheduled for that day go on, rather than cancelling it out of respect, "because Charley wouldn't want anybody to miss a Giants-Dodgers game just because he happened to die."

At Ebbets' funeral, Ed McKeever, one of Charley's partners, caught pneumonia and died a week later, whereupon Robbie was made president of the club. But even when he turned the managerial reins over to outfielder Zack Wheat, he would sit in his box seat and undermine his own manager by flashing signals and yelling instructions from the stands.

It is little wonder, then, that Babe Herman, the club's only real star (there was Dazzy Vance, but only every fourth day) drawing card, would, paradoxically, have to become its top clown, despite the fact that he was one of baseball's best left-handed hitters. But a traveling circus covets star clown attractions more than top left-handed hitters, and thus was Herman's role established.

HERMAN NEVER RESENTED the reverse publicity. "Heck, I never worried about anything when I played."

But now Babe is a little worried about posterity's view of him. He still doesn't mind the exaggerations, nor even the occasional pure falsehoods about his career, because he knows that in a somewhat convoluted, warped way, it is those legends which have really drawn attention to him in an historic sense; perhaps more so than had he merely been a colorless player with a bad team and a high lifetime batting average.

But he is also concerned that future generations of fans might not know that he did bat .324 in a 13 year career (11 full seasons), that he hit 181 homeruns and drove in 997, had a lifetime slugging average of .532, once hit three homeruns in a single game, hit the first homerun under lights (against Cincinnati, 1935), that he never led the league in hitting, because when he hit .393, Bill Terry hit .401, and when he hit .381, Lefty O'Doul hit .398.

THERE ARE CLEARLY OTHERS who got into the Hall of Fame on the weight of their hitting reputations, who cannot match Herman's batting records. And Babe never coddled his statistics, as many greats did. But like many other greats, he played hurt often, which may have cost him as much as 10 points off his lifetime average, and certainly cost him the 200 homerun and 1,000 RBI marks.

He played with several abscessed teeth in his sophomore year when he hit only .272 with 14 homers and 73 RBI, and had just four stolen bases. "I had pains all over my body," recalls Babe, "and when the season was over I finally got an examination and it turned out the teeth were poisoning me."

In 1934 he was hitting .344 for Chicago at about midseason when center fielder Kiki Cuyler ran into him trying to grab a ball that Herman had called for, and tore two of Babe's ribs loose.

Player-manager Charley Grimm rested Herman for a day or two, but Grimm hadn't been playing, either, because of a bad back. Now he felt that he had to play to help take up the slack of Herman's missing bat. Catcher Gabby Hartnett suggested to Grimm that Herman wasn't hurt as seriously as he, and that Grimm should ask Babe to go to first base. Said Grimm, "I can't ask Babe to do that."

So Hartnett approached Herman and said, "Babe, you don't want poor old Charley playing with a bad back, do you?"

Herman said, "Well, Gabby, I'm gonna tell you something. I can catch a ball but I can't swing a bat."

Hartnett's logic was irrefutable. "Charley can't do either one, Babe."

SO HERMAN WENT TO FIRST BASE, got one hit in his next 30 times up, and finished with a .304 batting average with 14 homers and 84 RBI.

"I played 10 years with both legs bandaged," says Babe, "and I never made excuses, and I never had writers or anybody else make excuses for me."

Herman feels that the best way to ensure that future generations wil know such things, know all his sides, is to set the record straight on his alleged misdeeds in hopes that, before history and legend again close in on him, the younger generation will have had long enough to see the forest of records for the saplings of goofs.

And aside from the allegations of his walking around with lit cigars in his pockets, a charge against which he silently pleads no comment, he can answer every charge of silliness with what he deems to be immutable facts.

Was Babe Herman a bad baserunner? He stole 94 bases during his career, and for three straight years was the second leading base stealer in the National Laague. Next week, Herman will discuss the true facts of those legendary base running golfers with which he has been credited.

Five-Way Tie for First in NPL

Defense Key to Upset of Rams

By JOHN MURPHY
Post Correspondent

Traditionally, few leaders in the North Peninsula League ever get the chance to look back. Too often they are running neck-and-neck in close company.

It's no different in this year's football race. After the third round of competition Friday, five high schools were tied for first place with 2-1 league records: El Camino, Westmoor, Serramonte, Half Moon Bay and (in a mild surprise) Jefferson.

El Camino downed previously unbeaten Westmoor 14-13; Half Moon Bay beat South San Francisco for the first time ever, 33-12; Jefferson stunned Oceana 22-7 and Serramonte outgunned Terra Nova 27-20. The losers outgained the winners in each games.

Westmoor-El Camino

El Camino's swarming, gang-tackling defense limited versatile Ram quarterback Jack Dorn to 33 yards rushing and forced four turnovers to hand Westmoor its first NPL loss.

Westmoor reached paydirt on its first offensive series when Dorn directed the Rams to an eight-play, 74-yard drive culminated by Brian Nichelson's 34-yard touchdown reception.

The relative ease of that drive proved to be deceptive. Camino's defensive unit, keyed by tackle Mike Brengolini and halfback Dan O'Regan, dominated the evening.

The defense set up the Colts' winning touchdown by recovering a fumble midway through the third period. Camino had driven 59 yards in seven plays to tie the game 7-7 on Al Kern's one-yard run with 8:33 left in the third period.

A minute and 17 seconds later the Colts were on the board again.

Mark Slavik picked up a Westmoor fumble and returned the ball 20 yards to the Ram 13. Chuck Warren slammed into the line for one yard and then Dennis Cowen scampered 12 yards up the middle for the score. Rich Bordi provided the eventual margin of victory with a successful conversion kick.

Westmoor nearly tied the game late in the fourth quarter with a 74-yard scoring run. However, the PAT attempt was wide to the left.

El Camino's Dennis Cowen led all rushers with 122 yards on 20 carries.

Dorn connected on 10 of 19 passes for 163 yards.

Oceana-Jefferson

Jefferson's Chuck Reed returned a kickoff 79 yards for one touchdown and ran 10 yards for another to spark the Indians to their second straight victory.

Reed also led all groundgainers with 81 yards on 15 carries. Jeff's Jack Sanders added 21 carries for 77 yards. Indian rushers outgained Oceana 202 to 96.

Shark QB Dave Hinds connected on 14 of 28 passes for 214 yards and one TD.

Serramonte-TN

Serramonte signal-caller Dan Lara connected with tight end Craig Garrity on three first-half touchdown passes to pace the Regent win.

Terra Nova used a nine-man defensive line throughout the first half and allowed Garrity to roam free. The 6-1, 185 pound receiver was wide open on all three receptions.

Terra Nova, after trailing 21-7 at the half, struck back for two touchdowns in the third period.

Tiger QB Daryl Fazzio found Mike Mooney from 37 yards out for 21-14. Then, following Mark Johnson's interception, Fazzio hooked up with Mooney again, this time for a 20-yard scoring toss. TN's PAT pass failed and Serramonte still led 21-20.

The Regents seemed to take control when Lara capped an 80-yard scoring drive with a 19-yard TD run around right end. However, Serramonte's PAT sailed wide TN still had a chance with 10:30 remaining in the final period.

After several changes of possession the Tigers got the ball back on their own 28 with less than a minute remaining.

Fazzio connected with Johnson on a screen pass up the middle and the later rambled for 35 yards before Darryl Jones brought him down on the Regent 37.

SSF-HMB

In the first quarter HMB's Jackie Quinlan intercepted a Warrior pass and returned 80 yards to score. SSF narrowed the gap to 7-6 on David Palmer's two-yard plunge.

But HMB came back to score on Grant Campbell's 27-yard field goal after a fumble recovery by John Galvin. After another fumble recovery, HMB went to work again, springing running back Peter Welty for 35 yards; the Cougars scored on Campbell's 20-yard pass to Galvin for a 17-6 halftime lead.

SSF came out running in the second half, and moved well with Palmer doing most of the damae. After HMB upped its lead on Campbell's 39-yard field goal, SSF tallied on a two-yard run by Palmer.

But the Cougars drove once (with Welty going over from the one) and blocked a punt at the Warrior four (with Welty scoring from that point shortly afterward to put the game away. SSF drove late in the game, but fumbled the ball away at the HMB five.

Palmer had 123 yards in 26 carries and quarterback Dave Stalker passed for 175 yards. Welty led HMB backs with 92 yards in 16 carries.

Wildmen Leads Webster Victory

Daniel Webster School, led by Mark Wildmen's two touchdown runs, shut out Westlake Park 19-0 in the Daly City Recreation Department's fifth and sixth grade Flag Football League opener.

Mark scored on runs of 25 and 12 yards and added an extra point to pace Coach Wayne (The Bear) Lukaris' offensive unit, while the defense held Westlake Park scoreless.

The Marchbanks Bucks rolled to a 20-0 victory over Westmoor Park. Kevin Reed streaked two touchdown runs at 23 yards and 18 yards while Coach Al (Pepper) Tabarez's steel curtain defense held Westmoor Park in check.

In a practice game, Jimmy Bunch's two touchdowns were the difference in Skyline School's 13-6 win over Franklin D. Roosevelt. Ronnie Ronas got FDR on the board early with a five-yard run to daylight but Coach Mike (The Hammer) Scott's offensive unit finally got untracked and rolled to victory.

OPEN GATES

Open highway gates, such as this shown on Cabrillo Freeway (SR-1) in Daly City, allow access to the high-speed roads by pedestrians. Gates are supposed to be closed and locked when not in use by maintenance crews, a Highway Department spokesman said. In the past children have been seen dashing across busy highways.

Conflict Delays Assault Hearing

The preliminary hearing for a Daly City woman who allegedly shot her husband between the eyes was delayed Oct. 20 when it appeared the prosecution's first witness might be forced to incriminate herself. The man died seven weeks after the shooting.

The North County Municipal Court hearing for Antoinette Brown, 21, was continued to Oct. 26.

Mrs. Brown was charged with assault to commit muder after the Aug. 31 incident at 300 Citrus Ave.

Her husband, Edward, 34, died on Oct. 11 and Mrs. Brown subsequently was charged with murder. She pleaded not guilty.

She allegedly shot her husband when he came home accompanied by Laura Gray, 22, of San Francisco.

Mrs. Gray testified Wednesday that Mrs. Brown was waiting for them in the house when they arrived that evening.

Mrs. Brown asked her husband if Mrs. Gray was the woman who had been there the night before and he said no, Mrs. Gray testified.

Mrs. Gray said the defendant was seated when she pulled out a gun and within seconds shot her husband between the yes.

However, questioning by defense attorney John Davids forced Judge F. J. deLarios to call a recess when the possibility of Mrs. Gray's being involved in drugs was suggested.

The judge said Mrs. Gray might be incriminating herself in answering Davids questions, and continued the trial until she could meet with an attorney of her own.

Doing Something Right

Isabel L. Souza, who celebrated 100 years Oct. 15 recovering from a stroke at Mary's Help Hospital, must be doing something right, despite her short hospitalization. During her lifetime, she has reared seven children, one of whom, Rose E. Rose, was with her for a party at the hospital. Mrs. Souza of San Francisco also has 57 great grandchildren and 22 great great grandchildren.

Pre-Arraignment Detention

North County Facility Plans Ordered

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors recommitted itself Thursday to construction of a pre-arraignment detention facility in the North County and directed a consultant team to include the project in planning to meet future county correction and detention needs.

"The board has pretty much committed to a North County facility," commented Board Chairman William H. Royer. "The subject is financing."

The consultant firm of Hughes, Heiss & Associates has estimated that a new facility will cost anywhere from $450,000 to $600,000 to build, with expected annual operating costs of $250,000 to $400,000.

Specific options as to the type of facility to be built, and alternatives for financing will be included in phase two of the study on correctional and detention facility needs.

Jay Gellert, a member of the consultant firm, said that a North County holding facility can divert as many as 30 persons on a weekend from having to be housed at the overcrowded main jail in Redwood City.

He estimated that the use of a North County detention facility is saving cities up to $170,000 a year in transportation costs and police time.

The board also adopted a policy Thursday of proceeding with expansion of the Sheriffs Office work-furlough, honor camp and community-based facilities, rather than emphasizing construction of maximum security facilities.

The policy was supported by Sheriff John R. McDonald Jr. He said that the present correctional facilities are up to 100 inmates over capacity. The sheriff urged haste in meeting the needs. Otherwise, he added, "sooner or later the pressure point is going to break."

In his report to the board, County Manager M. D. Tarshes said that to emphasize development of minimum security facilities would alleviate the need for new main jail space for about 10 to 15 years.

Furthermore, he added, minimum security facilities are 65 per cent less expensive to construct and 30 per cent less expensive to operate, as well as offering the potential to provide greater rehabilation and support services.

Freeway Action Asked

Early action by the State Highway Commission to complete the Interstate 380 (San Bruno Freeway) interchange at San Francisco International Airport is being requested by San Mateo and San Francisco county officials.

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Oct. 19 endorsed a letter prepared by Supervisor John M. Ward and calling upon the state to complete the freeway from Bayshore Freeway to the airport terminal entrance and to complete the link with Airport Boulevard.

When Interstate 380 was completed to Bayshore Freeway, the ramps for extension to the airport were left virtually dangling on the east side of the freeway.

Ward said the completion of the interchange should have high priority, terming it a "vital link" in the interstate highway system. Until it is completed, he said, Interstate 380 does not meet the interstate highway requirements.

As part of an interstate highway, Ward said the interchange project should qualify for 92 per cent federal funding.

Chief Deputy County Engineer Robert Sans estimated that the project would cost $32 million. With 92 per cent federal funding, the state would be paying $2.5 million.

In the letter to the Highway Commission, it is pointed out that failure to complete the freeway interchange has left 100 acres of airport land isolated, has resulted in traffic from the airport shops and facilities fanning onto residential streets of nearby communities and has denied needed access to cargo areas.

Suspect Chased

A young man who allegedly stole a car early Saturday morning hardly had time to get the engine warmed up before a trail of police was roaring behind him.

Daly City Police said Officer Lee Jett noticed a 1962 gray Volkswagen at 2 a.m. near Skyline Drive and Hickey Boulevard being driven with its lights off.

He followed the car but it wouldn't pull over. Next he turned on his red light, then the police siren, but still the car kept on, heading toward Highway 280 near Serramonte Shopping Center.

The Volkswagen reportedly turned onto the freeway and was traveling at about 60 miles an hour, Jett following it, north toward San Francisco.

At Seventh Street, the driver exited, police said, then sped toward the Bay Bridge on U.S. 101, by then at about 80 miles an hour. By this time, three California Highway Patrol cars had joined the chase and, in the middle of the bridge, the Volkswagen finally stopped.

Police said the driver, Wade McLaughlin, a 19-year-old transient, had stolen the car only about an hour before Jett spotted him. The owner was not even aware yet that it had been taken.

Police said McLaughlin was charged with auto theft and reckless driving.

Slayer Changes His Plea

Kenneth J. Russell Fri. withdrew his insanity plea after a jury convicted him of voluntary manslaughter in the stabbing death of friend John Yazolino in Pacifica in January of 1975.

The decision by the 23-year-old San Brunan averts a second phase of the trial to determine if he was legally sane or insane at the time he killed Yazolino. Russell had been released from a mental institution 13 days before the homicide.

Russell's withdrawal of the plea came against the advice of his attorney, David Goldstein, and the observation of Superior Court Judge Gerald K. Ragan that Russell most likely would have been found to have been insane at the time.

Russell now faces a maximum 15 year prison term. Judge Ragan scheduled sentencing for Nov. 10.

The judge methodically explained to Russell that he most likely would sentence him to prison. But if found insane, the judge explained, Russell would spend time in a mental institution until his sanity was regained. Ragan noted that Russell could spend a little time or life in a mental institution had he been found insane.
